

Island farmers & gardeners who save or are interested in seed are invited to attend

Our annual
West Hawai'i Seed Exchange

SATURDAY

NOVEMBER 5TH

FROM

2 TO 4 PM

AT THE AMY GREENWELL ETHNOBOTANICAL GARDEN IN CAPTAIN COOK

This event will coincide with the Garden's annual Arbor Day Plant Give-Away.

Farmers and Gardeners are invited to bring saved seed, cuttings, huli (taro tops), and corms of food crops that grow well in our home gardens and on our farms.

A wonderful time to Come together to share our knowledge and varieties and encourage home production and food security for West Hawai'i,

*Please name the varieties you bring,
if you know them*

Bring envelopes to gather seed from others

For more information, please contact
Diana Duff at hokudi@gmail.com